THE NEXT SHERIFF

LOW JOHNSON.

In many respects the office of sheriff is the most important office to be filled at the ensuing election. The sheriff has to do not only with the finances of the county and the collection of $60,000 in revenues annually, but he and his deputies are the peace officers of the county, the officials upon whom the people must rely for a proper enforcement of the law to guarantee the protection of life and property. The sheriff should be a man of high character as a citizen, who has the confidence and good opinion of all. He should be a man of courage, of determination and of stability of purpose. He should be discreet, careful and above all honest. The people should feel that their interests are safe in his hands. He should not be a man of immoral or questionable habits, but should represent the very best citizenship of his county. It may be said, and that truthfully, that such a man is hard to find. Nevertheless, in making up the excellent county ticket, the Democrats of Christian county have found such a man and such a candidate in the person of Marlow Johnson, better known to his friends as Low Johnson.

Mr. Johnson is a prosperous planter and cattle dealer, who lives on a fine farm one mile north of the city. By his energy and thrift he has accumulated some valuable property and having made a success of his own affairs it may be assumed that he will conduct the county's business in the same careful manner. He was at one time a commissioner of the Western Asylum, but with this exception he has never held an office. In these days of Rings and political oligarchies, it is refreshing to find new men in politics, fresh from the people, who will regard themselves as public servants and not as masters of the people who look upon office not as a public trust but a private snip.

Mr. Johnson has all of his life been a Democrat, but many of his nearest relatives are influential Republicans and he has perhaps as large a personal following outside of his party as any man in the county.

He is wonderfully popular as a man, a neighbor and a leader in progressive enterprises. He has always had the knack of making friends and it is almost impossible to find a Democrat who will vote against him from a personal reason. It is believed by those who have made a study of conditions that Mr. Johnson will beat the Democratic ticket, first because of his own positive strength and second because of the weakness of his opponent, whose record in office during a previous term has been the subject of much unpleasant discussion. He is not only very strong in the Republican districts north of town but he will make deep inroads into the Republican majorities in the large colored districts.

The Republican majority last year with a national ticket to be voted for and the Democratic candidates for county offices not even on the ballot, was less than 800 out of nearly 8,000 votes. There was but little organization, where at this time there will be a close organization and a determined effort to redeem the county, and Mr. Johnson's election is confidently claimed.

If elected the people will have in him a sheriff who will measure up to the highest standard.

New York, Sept. 30.—William Smith, who had his stomach removed three weeks ago in the Bushwick Hospital, Brooklyn, has left that institution thoroughly cured, the doctors say. AT POINT OF DEATH.

Frank Trimble Pricks Blistered Heel.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 30.—It is feared Frank Trimble, of Evansville, the big tackle of the Indiana University football team, is dying at the City Hospital of blood poisoning caused by an infection from a blister on his heel. Trimble's leg is swollen to twice its normal size and has been opened in over fifteen different places. He is in a stupor and unconscious of any pain.

Dr. E. D. Clark, an Indianapolis specialist is here and in charge of the case and Mrs. Eliza Trimble, the boy's mother, arrived this morning. Trimble's condition cannot be traced to football as the blister was caused by the wearing of a new pair of shoes and the infection was started, it is thought by his cutting the skin to relieve the blister.
